Industry-Academia Partnership

Francine Crémond (Sanofi, Francia)
CIQUS, 24 de octubre de 2013

Francine Crémond is currently Senior Director Alliance Management in charge of public-private partnerships for Sanofi R&D. She is leading the Aviesan alliance which includes several collaborative programs.

She has been educated as a Research Engineer in Cellular and Molecular Biology and spent several years in the Genomic unit of Sanofi where she was specialized in building study models of signaling pathways using the yeast Saccharomyces Cerevisiae. In 2001 she left the Discovery and joined the Partneship activities of Sanofi where she is in charge of scientific collaborations with external partners, including European Consortium from the European program FP5.
